Battle of the Kumsong River Salient aka the Jincheng Campaign 13-20 July 1953 Western side – focus on Hill 433 area

On this map: The circled areas with numbers represented companies of the ROK Capital Division and their positions on the night of the 13 & 14th of July 1953. From left to right is the 1st Battalion then slightly north east was the 2nd Battalion of the ROK 26th Regiment (White Tigers) of the ROK Capital (aka Tiger - pronounced Maengho in Korean) Division. The 2nd Battalion counter attacked westward on the night 13-14 July 1953, before retreating southward toward Hill 433.

The ROK Cavalry (Tiger) Regiment (9th & 11th Battalions) was to the north and east of the ROK 26th Regiment. It was this ROK regiment that lost its Regimental flag during the battle. A failed counter-attack by the Cavalry Regiment reserve (X on map) led to the devastating loss to many artillery units along Road 117A.

This adapted map (The Korean War – Vol. 3) fails to cite the 15^{th} , 65^{th} and 7^{th} Regiments of the 3^{rd} Division blocking coverage south of Road 117A, in that order, with the 7^{th} right flank along Road 117B. Hill 573 should be 373.

On the left is the ROK Cavalry Regimental Headquarters' flag (of the Capital Division) captured by Chinese Communist Forces. Please note the diagonal slash which represents a cavalry unit. And that the image does not show a white tiger. The other flag is the Headquarters pennant for the US 555th Field Artillery Battalion which also had grievous losses during the battle. Both flags now reside in a Beijing, China military war museum.

This 1991 map shows the same area as the adapted map above citing positions on the night of 13/14 July 1953. Notice changes in road names.

M42 with twin 40mm cannons – what they trained on in Germany.

M15 Special with a 40 mm single canon – what they got in Korea.
