

and served as chairman of the committee on military affairs and was appointed Judge of the Superior Court, July 4, 1861, and was promoted to the Supreme Bench in 1865. Shortly after his first appointment to the bench, he moved to Wethersfield and afterwards to the City of Hartford where he has since resided. He has written the opinion of the Supreme Court in some of the most important cases presented to the court for decision and has always been considered an authority in will cases, his opinion in such actions having always been considered of the highest value.

He was re-elected for three successive terms of eight years each and at the expiration of his constitutional age limit he lacked but one month of twenty-eight years of continuous service. He held the office for a longer time than any other judge since the adoption of the constitution and for twenty-three years, previous to 1889, he was the youngest man on the bench. He was an efficient member of the state board of education from its organization in 1865 to 1883. For some years he served on the state board of pardons. He was a republican in politics. Judge Carpenter was a man of absolute personal integrity and his rulings and decisions were regarded as just and able. About fifteen years ago Judge Carpenter suffered a shock which left him with a permanent lameness. On January 17, 1895, he fell near the corner of Garden and Asylum streets and broke his left hip, an accident which confined him to bed for several months. During his illness he fell in his room and retarded his recovery. Since getting out he had been wheeled about the city in an invalid chair by his faithful attendant, L. B. Denison. Judge Carpenter was gradually gaining physical strength in the injured leg and just before his last attack was able to walk upstairs to his office in the Hills block. Soon after retiring from the supreme bench in January, 1894, Judge Carpenter formed a law partnership with Frank B. Williams in this city, believing that he was still able to continue the practice of his cherished profession. His advice has been freely sought by those who knew of his admirable judicial qualities and appreciated the sound judgment of his trained legal mind. The General Assembly of 1895 elected him one of the state referees with a salary of $2,000 per year.

As soon as Judge Carpenter came to Hartford to live, about twenty-five years ago, he joined the Asylum Hill Congregational church and was for several years a deacon in the church. He conducted a Bible class of men in the Sunday-school until about a year ago. Ex-Judge Dwight Loomis and he both taught in the same Bible class at the same time.

An extract from a letter written by Judge Carpenter to David Carpenter of Foxboro, Mass., dated Hartford, Jan. 20, 1894: "As a preliminary statement I would say that Amos B. Carpenter has all the information (you desire); some of it I furnished him from land records of this state about 40 years ago. Through his assistance I was able to trace my ancestry back to the original William, who with his sons William and Joseph came to this country from the parish of Horwell, Eng. (Signed) ELISHA CARPENTER."

7302. II. FREDUS CHAPMAN was b. Oct. 5, 1820; m. Mary Ann Gilbert, daughter (1527) of Samuel and Polly (Hatch) Gilbert, Oct. 6, 1844, b. in Belchertown, Mass., May 8, 1823. Resided in Lebanon, Minn., was the town clerk one year and chairman of supervisors five years. Removed to Eureka near Farmington, Minn. and afterward to Minneapolis and d. in Grass Valley, Cal., Oct. 18, 1891.

Fredus Chapman graduated at the Holliston academy and followed the occupation of a teacher for several years in the public schools in his native state and in New York city. He went to California in 1849 and returned in 1852. He removed to Minnesota in 1855 and soon after became the principal of a school in Minneapolis. He also taught in some capacity at Farmington, and removed to California in 1887 and died at his home near Nevada City, where he was interred in accordance with his request.

7303. III. JARIUS HARVELIN was b. Feb. 14, 1822; m. Martha C. Kendall, Feb. 13, 1852, daughter of Amos Kendall and Mary Brown, b. April 27, 1823, in Palmer, Hampden county, Mass.

He obtained his education in the public school of the district where born, and by attending an academy for three terms at Holliston, Mass. and a select school for about six weeks in his native town. His preparatory law studies were commenced in the office of Fred Hovey, Esq., at Eastford in 1844, and completed in the office of Hon. Loren P. Waldo at Tolland, Conn. where he was admitted to the bar in March, 1847. Thus far he made his way by school teaching, work on a farm and in a shoe shop.

In the early fall of the last named year he located for the practice of his profession at Willimantic, Conn., where he remained till the spring of 1857 when he removed west and located in June of the same year at Madison, Wis., where he has ever since and still resides. Mr. Carpenter early in life interested himself in public matters especially in the public schools. He was for several years a member of the schoolboard in Willimantic, Conn. Since residing in Madison, Wis., he has served on the city school board for 28 consecutive years and was president of the board for 23 consecutive years. At the end of his last term he declined further service. In 1874 Yale college gave him the honorary degree of A. M. In 1876 the Wisconsin university gave him the honorary degree of LL. D. In 1877 he was appointed by the Supreme court of Wisconsin to revise the probate laws of the state. His revision has remained the probate code of the state since that time with slight amendments, several of which were made upon his suggestion. In 1878 the Supreme court of the state appointed him one of two commissioners to supervise the printing and indexing the revised statutes of the state just then completed and approved by the Legislature. In 1868 he was made a law professor and dean of the law faculty of the University of Wisconsin and organized the law department. In 1869 he was removed from the deanship but retained as a professor. In 1876 he was again made dean of the faculty and continued to serve as such till 1884 when he declined further service as such. In September, 1894, he entered upon his 27th consecutive year as a lecturer to the law students, in the Wisconsin university. In 1885 he was appointed judge of the Dane county court by Hon. J. M. Rusk then governor of the state to fill a vacancy. In 1886 he was again appointed by Governor Rusk to the same office to serve a full term of four years. In 1889 he was elected to the same place without opposition. In 1893 he was again elected without opposition to the same place, which term expired in January, 1898. He once ran for the district attorneyship of Dane county and was defeated. Once he ran for the mayoralty of Madison and was beaten. Several times he has been a member of the common council and president thereof. In September, 1894, he was in vigorous health, attending to official duties and lecturing to law students.

7304. IV. LUCIEN PHILO was b. Dec. 2, 1824; m. Ellen Cornelia Tucker, of (1528) Woodstock, Conn., March 19, 1848, daughter of John Tucker and was b. May 16, 1825 and d. Dec. 16, 1877; m. 2d, Sarah D. Lyon, Nov. 5, 1878, daughter of Elisha Lyon, of Woodstock, Conn., b. Nov. 6, 1847.

He served in the civil war, enlisted Jan. 6, 1864, was mustered in Jan. 6, 1864 and mustered out Sept. 6, 1865, in Company K, first regiment of heavy artillery. He was in the assaults on Forts Anderson and Mahone and was engaged in the siege of Petersburg.

7305. V. MARTHA AMANDA was b. Feb. 23, 1828; m. Miles Higbie, Feb. 12, 1860, b. Aug. 30, 1821. Residence, Chatfield, Minn. They have two children: 1, Roxana, b. in 1861; 2, Clara, b. in 1867.

7307. VIII. ALFRED PATRICK was b. Oct. 29, 1835; d. Sept. 18, 1864, at Key West, Fla.
- He fitted at Suffield, Conn., for the junior class in Brown university, supporting himself in the meanwhile by teaching and by manual labor. He taught one year in Madison, Wis. While temporarily residing in St. Charles, Minn., he enlisted in the 1st regiment Minnesota volunteers, May 23, 1861, and fought in 20 battles, among which were Bull Run, Fredericksburg, Antietam and Gettysburg. He was wounded in each of the two battles last named. In this regiment he became corporal and then sergeant. After carrying a musket two and a half years he was transferred to the 2d U. S. colored infantry. He had previously organized and drilled a company of colored troops in Washington, and he was appointed 1st lieutenant of Company K of the 2d colored infantry and marched down Broadway, N. Y. at the head of his company to embark for the south. His regiment was ordered to Key West. In the spring of 1864 he was ordered north on account of failing health. In August of the same year he was so far recovered as to be able to join his regiment, though friends urged a longer stay, as the yellow fever was making havoc with his troops. He died of yellow fever at Key West, and sleeps in a nameless grave. "A purer patriot or a nobler young man never belonged to any army. He has given to his country all he had to give, and cheerfully. After three years of service he might have returned with honor, but he had no disposition to consult his ease in times like these and only seemed anxious to be at the post of duty."
7308. IX. LORIN NILES was b. Dec. 22, 1838; d. March 7, 1871, at St. Charles, Minn.
- He enlisted Feb. 23, 1864 for three years in Brackett's cavalry Minnesota volunteers and was discharged Dec. 18, 1865.

7514. I. DANA STEDMAN was b. Jan. 7, 1863; m. Clara L. Curtis, July 27, 1887. Residence, Middletown Springs. A druggist.

At the age of 18, wishing to procure a more extended education than derived from district schools, he entered the Castleton Normal school and paid his expenses by work in a mill during the summer months and by teaching during the winter. He became much interested in botany, the study of which has been a great pleasure in later years. The summer of 1884 was spent in the study of medicine with Dr. H. H. Howe, of Weston, Vt. The following spring he was engaged as a drug clerk for F. A. Morse, of West Rutland, Vt., where he remained three years, leaving only to engage in business for himself at Middletown Springs, Vt., where he now resides. He has held the office of school director and Justice of the Peace, etc., and his name is widely known by the druggists as the manufacturer of Carpenter's Grip Syrup.

Gen. 11. Children 2, b. in Grafton, Vt.

7515. I. ORIN HENRY was b. Jan. 17, 1861; m. Mary Lucretia Dow, of Burlington, (1612) Vt., Aug. 23, 1889, daughter of Alfred Dow and was b. Sept. 4, 1863. Residence, Malden, Mass. An attorney and counsellor-at-law.

He graduated from the Bellows Falls, Vt., high school and finished his education at Phillips Exeter academy and Boston university. He read law with the Hon. C. B. Eddy at Bellows Falls, Vt. and was admitted to the Vermont bar, in company with James Morrill, son of Senator Morrill, of Vermont, and ex-Speaker Mann, in 1883, when just passed his 21st year. He was induced to go to Boston for a greater opportunity for study. After taking a three days examination with some 300 others before the Boston School of Supervisors, he passed his examination and taught in the Blossom Street school one year and the evening high school for three years. He had at the same time attended a special course at the Boston University Law school. He was admitted to the Suffolk County bar in the Supreme Judicial court, in January, 1884, and has been in constant practice ever since. He associated himself with William Warren Towle, Esq., No. 10 Tremont St., Boston, where they have been since 1884. Mr. Carpenter has lived in Malden since October, 1883 and he was elected chairman of the board of assessors in 1886. He had held the chairmanship of the board since he was a member of it, upwards of seven years and had two more years to serve when he sent in his resignation, to accept the more important office of city solicitor. Last year a change had to be made to retain him on the board on account of the increase in his law business, in which he has been very successful. He was one of the organizers of the Massachusetts Assessors' association and held the office of chairman of its executive committee. During the period of his assessorship, he appeared a number of times before the Legislature in relation to changes in the laws for assessment of taxes. He is the youngest man who ever held the office of solicitor and was elected by the concurrent vote of the council. His legal ability and general fitness for the position is well known and the citizens may feel assured that the city's interests will be guarded with fidelity and care.

7574. I. GEORGE MOULTON was b. April 22, 1844; d. suddenly at Katwyk in Holland, Sept. 30, 1896, while on a European tour for his health.

After residing for some time at his birthplace, Judge Carpenter removed to New Bedford, Mass. where he attended the public schools of that city, afterwards finishing his common education at the grammar schools of Providence. For some years after graduation from the higher branches, he engaged in various work, and later entered Brown university, where, after hard study, he was graduated with honors in 1864. While attending this university he was elected a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. He was employed as a reporter for the Providence Evening Press, the Providence Daily Journal, and in the courts; he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1867, and practised at Providence for 15 years; on July 1, 1880, he was appointed by the Governor one of the commissioners to revise the laws of Rhode Island; in April, 1882, he was elected by the general assembly a justice of the supreme court of the state; he resigned that office Jan. 1, 1885 and on Jan. 2, 1885 became United States district judge for the district of Rhode Island, which office he now, July, 1896, holds. On March 6, 1891, he was elected by the city council to collect and print the early records of the town of Providence. The following are extracts taken from the Providence, R. I. Daily Journal:

"He held office in the following organizations: First Vice-President of the Rhode Island Historical society, President of the A. E. Club, Commander ad vitam of the Worshipful society of K. D., Vice-President of the Providence Art Institute, President of the Providence Bar club and President of the Providence Homeopathic Dispensary.

In Masonry Judge Carpenter had received the highest honors, having been a 33d degree Mason for 14 years. He was raised to the degree of Master Mason in St. John's Lodge, No. 1, of this city June 18, 1873, and exalted to the degree of Holy Royal Arch in Providence Chapter April 2, 1874. He received the degrees in Providence Council of Royal and Select Masters in June and December, 1874, and was created a Knight of the Temple in St. John's Commandery, No. 1, May 18, 1874. In October and November of that year he received the Scottish Rite degrees and Sept. 19, 1882, was crowned an Inspector General at Boston. On Sept. 15, 1886, he was made an active member of the Supreme Council of 33d degree Masons for the Northern Jurisdiction.

In many of these bodies he has held high office and last year was elected Eminent Commander of St. John's Commandery. In this position he received the various commanderies from different parts of the country which stopped in this city on their way to and returning from the triennial conclave of Knights Templar in Boston in August of last year.

Some months ago, Judge Carpenter with his most intimate associates, Judge Eugene F. Warner and attorney Walter B. Vincent, planned to take a vacation trip through Europe during the summer. They left here July 9, and all indications pointed to a most pleasant experience. Information of the sad ending of the journey was received with general sorrow throughout the city Friday, for Judge Carpenter was widely known and highly regarded for his genial personality and kindly ways.

Judge Carpenter was a prominent churchman, being a member of St. John's church. He was also one of the founders of the Churchman's club of this city."

A copy of a letter, by Judge P. E. Tillinghast of Providence, R. I., addressed to the chairman of a meeting of a full bench of U. S. circuit court of appeals on the life and character of the late Judge Carpenter:

"PROVIDENCE, OCT. 22, 1896.

HON. CHARLES E. GORMAN, CHAIRMAN, ETC.:

Dear Sir:—As I shall be unable to attend the bar meeting to be held in honor of the memory of the late Hon. George M. Carpenter, Judge of the United States district court, for the district of Rhode Island, I desire to express through you my high appreciation of the character and ability of the deceased. While at the bar I looked upon him as a remarkably well read, progressive and thoroughly equipped lawyer, and after his elevation to the bench of the state supreme court, I considered him peculiarly well qualified for the discharge of the high trust committed to him.

Judge Carpenter was eminently a self-poised man. He thought out the problems of law, as well as the problems of life, for himself, using other men's thoughts, not as a guide, but simply as an aid in his own processes, so that when he reached a conclusion it was essentially his own, and having thus reached it, he was exceedingly confident as to its correctness. In fact, I think he seldom had any misgivings with regard to the correctness of his conclusions. He had a very logical mind, clear and sharp-cut, a mind thoroughly trained and disciplined to accurate and even mathematically exact methods of thinking, and he felt sure it could be safely trusted and relied on to do good work.

He was a very methodical man. Indeed, I have never known one more thoroughly so than he. While at the bar, he adopted and carried out a system of work in his office which enabled him at a moment's notice to put his hand upon any paper pertaining to any case he ever had under his control. He was thus enabled to work with the least possible friction, and to instantly command the aid of everything in his office relating to the matter immediately before him. His system was so complete in all its details, that to a stranger to the method, it seemed intricate and cumbersome; but to him it was as simple as the alphabet, and instead of being an annoyance, was a pleasure.

He was a man of much and varied learning. For he was not only a profound lawyer, but a man of large literary attainments as well. Possessed of an analytical mind, he readily took in and comprehended the pith of whatever he read, and made it his own. He read much, and he read well. He was always abreast of the best thought of the times, and in fact was himself a leader in that thought.

He had a ready pen and a pure taste, which coupled with great facility of expression and a vigorous, manly style, made him a writer of no mean proportions. He would doubtless have taken high rank as an editor or author, had he chosen the profession of letters instead of that of the law. He had almost a passion for good books, and was always at home in discussing their merits.

Judge Carpenter was a most genial and companionable man with his associates, when on the bench of the supreme court of this state. Never an unkind word or look from him marred the harmony or disturbed the judicial dignity of that body. Moreover, his knowledge of the law and of the great underlying principles on which it was based, coupled with a rare capacity for applying those principles to the particular case in hand, made him a most useful and efficient judge. The only criticism I would make of him, and I fear it would be almost presumptuous on my part even to suggest any criticism whatsoever, is that he was sometimes too hasty in his rulings at nisi prius, and perhaps not always sufficiently considerate of the feelings and rights of counsel. But his mind worked quickly, and his first impressions, though sometimes at fault, were usually correct.

He was a ready and interesting speaker, knowing how "to think on his feet," and having a good command of wholesome and vigorous English. His style was deliberate and unimpassioned, his language was accurate and carefully chosen, and he always caused his hearers to feel that he had something to say, and knew how to say it.

I look upon this sudden and seemingly untimely taking off as a great loss, not only to the members of the profession of the law, which profession he greatly adorned and dignified, but also to the bench, and to the state at large as well. Indeed, for some time past I had looked upon him as a rising judge, and had hoped that the time might come when he would occupy a higher position even, on the bench, than that to which he had been called, fully believing that he was competent for, and would do honor to, any judicial position in the gift of the government.

But, though his sun went down at noon, and though he was cut off in the strength of his vigorous manhood, and in the midst of his usefulness, who shall say that he did not fully accomplish what should be the great aim and purpose of every life, namely, that of adding something to the sum total of human happiness, and of making the world better by having lived therein?

Very truly yours,

P. E. TILLINGHAST."

Julius Angelo Carpenter was born at Uxbridge, Mass., Aug. 19th, 1827. When he was 10 years of age his parents removed to the then far West and were among the first to settle in the Fox River Valley, in Kane Co., Ill., where now is Carpentersville. He was reared on his father's farm and lived with his father till he was 22 years old, when he made his first venture in his own behalf. He opened a store in the hamlet of Carpentersville, and here he gave evidence of those sterling traits of character, strong judgment and keen penetration in the affairs of life which soon won the admiration and confidence of all with whom he came in contact. His uncles, Joseph of Providence, R. I. and Daniel of Carpentersville, had built a large mill to utilize the water power in the place. This venture was so unfortunate that it was feared that the whole investment would be lost. The young man was given a quarter interest by his uncles for taking the management of it, and his success was so complete that he eventually became the sole owner. From the day he opened his little store his business affairs grew and expanded. He founded institutions and started them on the highway to prosperity. He platted and laid out the village of Carpentersville, about 1852, having become almost the sole owner of the five water privileges of the place: about that time also at his own expense he constructed a bridge across the river. In 1866 he erected at Carpentersville the Valley Woolen Mill, of which he was one of the principal stockholders. In 1868 he became interested in the Illinois Iron and Bolt Company, which under his management became increased in value from $35,000 in 1868 to more than $200,000 in 1880, besides paying dividends from 10 to 25 per cent. He brought into existence the Star Manufacturing Company for the manufacture of agricultural implements. He built a two-story double store building and made the flour mill one of the finest in the state. In 1878 he induced the Chicago and Northwestern R. R. Co. to change its tracks from Dundee so as to pass through Carpentersville. At the time of his death he owned 1,000 acres of land near Carpentersville besides large tracts in Champaign Co., Ill. and in Kansas and Nebraska. Mr. Carpenter removed to Elgin, Ill., in 1875, and became a member of the banking house of Bosworth, Carpenter & Co. He was also president of the Savings department known as the City Banking Company. In 1877 he was made treasurer of the Illinois Northern Hospital for the insane, a public institution located at Elgin. While a resident of Dundee Township he served the people as postmaster at Carpentersville and several times served as supervisor of Dundee Township. At the November election in 1870 he was elected to represent his district in the Illinois House of Representatives, and he was again chosen in 1872 to the same office, and served as chairman on several important committees.

Julius Angelo Carpenter and Mary Edwards had three children, namely: One girl living to the age of six years, one girl to the age of three years and a boy who died in infancy. Eminent as he was in business and society circles, he was by far at his best in his home in the bosom of his family: here he was the perfect man, the tenderest husband and a genial companion. His religious convictions were strong. In belief he was a Congregationalist and always took an active interest in church and Sunday-school work.

"Henry B. Carpenter of Central Falls died Wednesday night at his home after a long illness in the 51st year of his age. Mr. Carpenter was born in Wickford, R. I. He was educated in the village schools, and when a young man went to Pawtucket, where he was apprenticed in the machine and steam fire engine shops of William Jeffers. About 1874 he formed a partnership with Oliver Hackett in the crockery business, the store being on Mill, now North Main street. The business was finally conducted alone by Mr. Carpenter, who retired about 1878, and since then he had been the head bookkeeper in the printing house of E. L. Freeman & Son. Mr. Carpenter was well known in Pawtucket and Central Falls, where he was greatly respected for his personal character. He was a member of the Broad Street Baptist Church and of the executive committee of the Pawtucket Young Men's Christian Association. He leaves a wife and a daughter."

7864. I. LEWIS CASS was b. Feb. 20, 1836; m. Mary Morrison, December, (1870)
1864. Residence, 2316 Clarkson St., Denver, Col.

He worked in the cotton mills of his native town and received a common school education until he was able to attend the Webster high school, at the same time learning the trade of carriage trimming and harness making. He acted as clerk in a mercantile store about one year. He continued in the carriage trimming business until he was 21 years of age. At 21 he went to the state of New Jersey where he taught school several years successfully. In 1863 he was made state Inspector of Public Schools in New Jersey, which position he resigned to become principal of Corporate school No. 1, in the city of New York, in April, 1864. In December, he was married to his principal assistant teacher and he immediately removed to Washington, D. C., to accept a position as an accountant in the U. S. Treasury Department. Having for several years written for the public press, he became connected with the Washington Chronicle. While in Washington, he took a law course at Columbia College and was afterwards admitted to the bar. In 1867 he assisted in publishing the first republican newspaper south of Mason and Dixon's line, the Charleston Republican, in Charleston, S. C. In 1868, in addition to his other duties he was private secretary to the Hon. Wm. A. Buckingham, then U. S. Senator and formerly the famous war governor of Connecticut. In 1872 he was elected alderman of the city for a term of two years and was made chairman of the finance committee. He was instrumental in having built the Columbia Opera House, which was projected, built, and dedicated during his incumbency as alderman. In 1873 he was appointed by the governor as one of the regents of the State Normal School and became its first president. He was also appointed by the governor as state commissioner to the World's Exposition at Vienna, Austria, in 1873, and attended that great fair, being absent several months. He was elected a member of the Forty-Third Congress as a republican from what was known as the old Calhoun district, which was formerly represented by Preston S. Brooks, the man who so brutally assaulted the Hon. Charles Sumner. At the expiration of his congressional term in 1875, he was appointed by President Grant as collector of internal revenue for the third district of South Carolina. His district was twice consolidated with others, he being retained as collector. He was instrumental in exposing and bringing to punishment the infamous "Ku Klux Klan" or "Knights of the Invisible Empire," and his fearless denunciation in his paper of the terrible outrages perpetrated upon the poor defenceless colored people by this band of outlaws, led to the suspension by President Grant, of the writ of habeas corpus in nine counties in South Carolina, the subsequent arrest of hundreds of prominent citizens, their conviction and punishment by imprisonment from three months to six years and the final breaking up of this terrible clan. In 1876 he was nominated for Congress by the republicans upon the same ticket with Hon. Daniel H. Chamberlain and though polling 500 more votes than his predecessor of two years before he was counted out by the most shameful fraud and conspiracy. He resigned his office as collector of internal revenue in 1877 and removed to Colorado, where he engaged in journalism and mining in Leadville, Col. In 1880 he was appointed by President Hayes and confirmed by the U. S. Senate as supervisor of census for Colorado to take the 10th U. S. census. He was appointed in the postal service of the United States and served in the post-office inspector's division until 1883, when he resigned to engage in his profession.

He received a common school and mercantile education, has taken a deep interest in the various branches of agriculture from early boyhood, has given special attention to the breeding and improvement of live stock, has always been earnest and active in advancing the educational interests of that section of the state. His political identity is with the Republican party; has frequently been a member of the state central committee; was elected to the general assembly to the lower house in 1863 and 1864 and to the senate in 1869 and 1870. During the eight years serving in the Ohio legislature, he was on the finance committee and other important committees, at different times, and was prominent in aid of much valuable legislation. Especial credit is due to his skill and management of the bill securing appropriations for the building of the Ohio hospital for epileptics; located at Gallipolis. It is the first institution of the kind in the United States and is doubtless one of the greatest benefactions of the century. In 1896 he was a delegate to the Republican national convention at St. Louis. He is a member of the Masonic fraternity and a Knight Templar.

Frank DeWillis Carpenter (10), 6126-d, in his 'teen's changed his name to Willis Frank Carpenter, not liking the name Frank for a first name, not the De before Willis. He was born June 15, 1852, Watertown, Nashua township, Ogle county, Ill. on his father's farm (John Carpenter (9) of Surry, N. H.). There, he lived his life and died, Dec. 1929. (The above mentioned farm is four miles S. E. of Oregon, Ill.). He married Alice C. Bates Dec. 5, 1877. She was born at Elmhurst, Ill., April 30, 1859, daughter of James (of Mass.) and Margaret (Williams) Bates. She died, 1926, Watertown, Ill. Willis Frank Carpenter, (I have changed his name as he would have it), had the following:

Children born, (all at Watertown farm):

1. John Forest Carpenter (11) was born June 14, 1878; died July 7, 1937, a farmer and building contractor, Oregon, Ill. He married Grace Anna Newton May 15, 1898, daughter of George W. and Anna (Case) Newton of Susquehanna county, Penn.

Children born:

1. Dwight Earl (12), born Taylor township, Ogle county, Ill., Nov. 8, 1898; died Jan. 15, 1899.
2. Alice Arlene, born Nashua township, Ogle county, Ill., Nov. 2, 1899. She married Lester G. Farrell (now deceased) July 2, 1919 of Oregon, Ill.

Children born:

1. Clark Earl (13), born March 29, 1920.
2. Hugh Gibson, born about two years later.
3. George Willis (12), (the writer of this insertion), born Oregon, Ill., March 12, 1901, power plant operator and power plant electrician for Central Illinois Public Service Company at their Grand Tower, Ill. power plant. He married Nov. 16, 1929, Mary Bell Delaney of Rochelle, Ill., a nurse; daughter of John E. and Mary (Bell) Delaney.
4. Helen Lucile, born March 3, 1905; died March 13, 1905.

2. Ada Louise (11), born June 1, 1882; died 1936. She married Everett E. Taylor Nov. 2, 1904, son of William Lovell and Ella (Burk) Taylor of Oregon, Ill.

MAJ. GEN. M. CARPENTER
died Oct. 28, 1830
Aged 65 years.

Mathew Carpenter went to Newtown, Tioga Co., N. Y., now Elmira, Chemung Co., N. Y. in 1793 and bought a large tract of land in what is now the center of the city of Elmira. A stream, Newtown creek, ran through one large tract of his land of 200 acres, on it was the first fulling mill in these parts and he owned a woolen mill.

He was a member of the assembly in 1799, and in 1823. Was a delegate from the county to the constitutional convention of 1821. It was when he was in the legislature that the name of Newtown was changed to Elmira after the name of his favorite daughter Amira usually written Almira or Elmira. He also held the office of clerk for the county for 19 years, receiving his appointment from Governor Clinton. He was very prominent in the legislature. On difficult questions his opinions were considered the best. He built the first sawmill, wool carding and cloth dressing mill in that county. When in the legislature he rode on horseback back and forth with saddle and saddle-bags through the woods, considerable part of the way nothing to guide him except Indian trail and marked trees. He was appointed the state surveyor of the public lands in New York, also appointed general by the governor, of a regiment of militia after the Revolution.

Maj. George Oliver Carpenter, one of Boston's best known citizens, is dead after an illness of nearly a month. Major Carpenter was born at No. 63 Charter Street, Boston, Dec. 26, 1827. Charter Street is near the old Copp's Hill burying ground, and that part of the city was then the best residential section. He was the son of George and Mary Bentley (Oliver) Carpenter. His parents were also natives of Boston and connected with the first families. Mr. Carpenter was educated in the Boston schools and in the famous old Eliot school, from which he was graduated in 1840. He was one of the six to receive the Franklin medal. He spent a part of the year at the English high school under the mastership of Thomas Sherwin, but his health prevented a continuance of his studies.

His business career began as soon as he left the high school. In June, 1841, he entered the house of John H. Barbour & Bro., commission merchants, and pioneers in the Texas trade then on Lewis wharf. Mr. Carpenter had also for years been actively connected with insurance and banking interests. He was president of the Boston Fire Underwriters' Union from 1876 to 1877; was a director of the Eliot National bank of Boston for more than 25 years, and for 40 years or more was a director of the National bank of South Reading, now Wakefield, where he once resided. He had always been associated with numerous local organizations, and had been greatly interested in Boston's institutions, commerce, literary and social life.

At the age of 15 he was librarian of the Boston Mercantile Library association, which position he held for two years. He was connected with the Charitable Mechanic association since 1870. He was one of the incorporators of the South End Industrial school and a member of its finance committee. He had been a member of the Boston board of Aldermen, and was one of the trustees of the Boston public library in 1870 and 1871. He was an early member of the Old School Boys' association and its president in 1886 and 1887. He was one of the orators and first president of "The Vowels" a club of past presidents of the Eliot School associations, also a director of the Bostonian society; was one of the original members of the Paint and Oil club, its president in 1891-92; was an early member of the Commercial club, also a member of the Art, Algonquin and Exchange clubs.

In early and middle life he was greatly interested in military affairs, and when but 16 years of age he joined the Massachusetts Volunteer Militia as a private in the old Washington Phalanx. During his residence in Wakefield from 1847-61 Mr. Carpenter organized the Richardson Light Guards. At this time he was Adjutant of the Seventh Regiment Militia, and in 1858 he became Brevet Major of the Second Brigade, under Gen. Joseph Andrews. Ten years later, in 1868, he was commander of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery company. He was also commander of the Old Guard of Massachusetts, an organization composed of past and present commissioned officers of the State militia. He was thirty-third degree Mason. He was married in South Reading in 1850 to Miss Maria Josephine Emerson. They had two sons, George O., Jr., manager of the St. Louis department of the National Lead company, and Frederick B., a partner in the insurance firm of George O. Carpenter & Son.

Harvey Scovil, November, 1849, residence, Chicago, Ill., a druggist.

The village of Boardmansville was made up on about 30 acres of the Boardman farm. The first lots were sold in 1879 with the clause prohibiting forever the sale of intoxicating liquors. Mr. and Mrs. Boardman celebrated the 60th anniversary of their marriage, in October, 1894 with a large company of friends. Mr. Boardman has held many important offices in town and county: a prominent member of the board of education. Mr. Boardman was a strong influential temperance worker, a conscientious member of the Presbyterian church for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Marcia P. Boardman states that the record of the marriage of Polly or Mary Carpenter to Luman Rice that she was given away by her father Capt Daniel Carpenter of the Revolution, has seen the parchment on which his commission was written, he drew a pension for many years. His residence was Portville, N. Y. The public records at Washington show that Daniel Carpenter served as private of New Hampshire militia, commanded by Colonel Nichols in the Revolutionary war. He enlisted July 9, 1780 and discharged Oct. 21, 1780, time of service, three months and thirteen days; he saw Major Andre executed Oct. 2, 1780: he deeply regretted the act, said he was a noble looking man. There is no doubt but what he served as captain in a militia company after the close of the war.

Luman Rice lost his left hand in landing an ark laden with plaster on the Susquehanna river. He threw a cable round a tree in catching it in his left hand, the end of the cable being untwisted, it caught around his hand and to save himself from being drawn round the tree he braced with his right hand, his left hand was pulled off and cords drawn out up to his elbow, his arm was amputated above the elbow, which prevented working at his trade as a house carpenter. In building his new house, the day that he was 40 years old, he made a door with six panels.

William B. S. was born in Delaware, Ohio, in 1828. His father was a cripple early in life and his mother died young so he had to educate himself. He taught school for a number of years till he saved money enough to put himself through a medical college. He graduated at the Cleveland medical college in 1853. In 1856 he emigrated west with his young wife and baby son. They spent the winter of 1856 and 1857 in northern Iowa suffering great hardships from the cold. In 1857 he came to Kansas and located in Lime County, taking up claims and practicing medicine through the country. This was just at the time of the "Border Ruffian war" which led up to the war of the Rebellion in 1861 and Lime County was the scene of some of the most bloody massacres of that bloody time. In 1861 he enlisted in the army as a private but was soon promoted and in a few months was elevated to major and surgeon of the 5th cavalry. He served three years under General Powell Clayton, present minister to Mexico, was mustered out in 1863 at Leavenworth where he remained and entered the practise of medicine. He died Dec. 16, 1893 after becoming one of the leading physicians of that place. He was a member of the Kansas State Medical association and for fourteen years was physician to the Kansas state penitentiary.

Benjamin Austin Richardson was born at Wolcott, Wayne Co., New York, April 30, 1843. Removed with parents, April 30, 1859 to Delaware, Ohio and from there in February 1861 to Dublin, Wayne County, Ind., from which place he enlisted July, 1862 in the 84th Indiana volunteer infantry. He served immediately after enlistment in the repulse of Kirby Smith's invasion of Kentucky and afterward put in the winter of 1863 and 1864 in the Kanawha campaign in West Virginia. His regiment was then transferred to the army of the Cumberland where he participated in the campaign from Nashville which terminated in the battle of Chickamauga, the capture and holding of Chattanooga, the key to the South, and he was one of that forlorn hope, with Whittaker's brigade, Steadman's division, Granger's corps, who rallied around "The Rock of Chickamauga" (Gen. George H. Thomas) that Sunday afternoon, Sept. 20, 1863, on Snodgrass Hill when the entire right of the army had been swept from the field, saving the day
