First Generation

1. James Carpenter-25852 was born about 1800 in Jamaica, Long Island, Queens, New York, USA. He died on 30/31 Jan 1871 in Brooklyn, Kings, New York, USA. He was buried in Feb 1871 in Evergreen Cemetery, now, The Evergreens Cemetery, Brooklyn, Kings, New York, USA.

Number 2214 in the Carpenter Memorial. Page 280.

No family listed. Except that he married Sarah Wood. No birth date given.

Residence: Sing Sing, NY. (It is in the village of Ossining, Westchester County near the Orange County border.)

NOTE: The Carpenter Memorial is in error because his first wife was Mary Ward of Ossining and not Sarah Wood. And the James Carpenter who lived in Sing Sing area was not related. See BOOK: next.

BOOK: Documents of the Assembly of the State of New York, Volume 3 - page 543 where on 24 Nov 1854 at Sing Sing that a James Carpenter, harnessmaker, presented a bills for work done but not paid for of $5 and $18 of work. Statement made. Details at:

COMMENTS: by Gene Zubrinsky

The 1855 New York State census record of James and Mary Carpenter's household informs us that William H.'s father had then been a Brooklyn merchant for the previous six years and, before that, had lived in Manhattan from at least 1839 (daughter Serena 16 in 1855, b. N.Y. County [Manhattan]).

Moreover, James's first wife, Mary (Ward), died in Manhattan in 1837 (obit in Manhattan Newspaper).

It is therefore appropriate to exclude Sing Sing, Westchester County, and Newburg and Minisink, both in adjacent Orange County, as residential locations of William H.'s father, James Carpenter.

xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx Newer notes follow - these take priority xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

BIRTH:

Clearly born in New York, but his actual birth date and place have not been found.

The 1855 state census gives James's birthplace as New York County (i.e., Manhattan); that of 1865 has it as Queens, which could mean Jamaica. Perhaps Manhattan should be mentioned as a possibility. Per Gene Zubrinsky.

MARRIAGE:

He is clearly married by 1825, and maybe as early as about 1818/1820, to Mary Ward who died in 1837.

He marries again to Mary Ann Jube in 1838.

James married (1-MRIN:10974) Mary Ward-25855 about 1821/1823 in ,, New York, USA. Mary was born about 1805/1806 in Ossining, Westchester, New York, USA. She died on 2 Aug 1837 in ,, New York, USA.

NAME:

Sarah Wood or Mary Ward? Per son Cornelius his mother was Mary Ward.

Gene Zubrinsky writes in an email dated 29 Mar 2019:

James's first wife was not Sarah Wood but Mary Ward:

"DIED ...

On Wednesday morning [2 Aug. 1837], after a lingering illness, Mrs. MARY, wife of Mr. James Carpenter and daughter of Israel Ward, deceased, of Westchester County, New York, in the 32nd year of her age"

Citation: New York Spectator, Thursday, 3 August 1837, Vol: XL, Issue 46, page 2, image at genealogybank.com

<<http://genealogybank.com/>>; I have a chart confirming that Wednesday was 2 Aug. 1837). Son Cornelius's death certificate identifies his mother as Mary Ward and gives her birthplace as Ossining (Sing Sing) (Cornelius Adriance Carpenter, "New York, New York City Municipal Deaths, 1795-1949" — <<https://www.familysearch.org/ark:/61903/1:1:2WVW-416>>FamilySearch.org <<http://familysearch.org/>>). It seems likely that a submitter to the Carpenter genealogy confused James's residence with his first wife's birthplace. Israel Ward is said to have died at Sing Sing in 1820 (The American Biographical Sketch Book - William HUNT (Publisher, at Albany.) - Google Books <

Israel Ward is said to have married a daughter of John Rossell (The American Biographical Sketch Book - William HUNT (Publisher, at Albany.) - Google Books <<https://www.geni.com/people/Israel-Ward/6000000046684797968>>). This is unconfirmed, but if accurate, it might explain how the Carpenter genealogy got wrong both the forename and surname of James's (first) wife: while her name wasn't Sarah, perhaps her mother's was; and Ward morphs easily into Wood. Per Gene Zubrinsky via email on 29 March 2019.

James and Mary had the following children:

- + 2 F i. Emily Carpenter-176575 was born about 1824. She died on 7 Aug 1879.
- + 3 M ii. William Henry Carpenter-176573 was born in 1825. He died on 13 May 1899.
- 4 F iii. Sarah Carpenter-176574 was born about 1826 in New York City, New York, New York, USA. She died in 1914.

The Seventh Presbyterian Church of Jesus Christ was organized on March 27, 1818, by Rev. Elihu V. Baldwin, D. D., in the home of William Badoe, and the first house of worship was located on Sheriff Street, near Broome. In 1842, a new church was built, as designed by Napoleon Le Brun. For more than twenty years the church was known as "Dr. Hatfield's Church," due to the pastorate of the Rev. Edwin F. Hatfield, D.D., who led the congregation from 1835 until he resigned in February 1856 to become pastor of the North Presbyterian Church. For many years, Seventh Presbyterian Church had the largest Sunday school in the United States. PARENTS:

Gene Zubrinsky questions of how the parent link was made. Primarily from BrianKasler.

Gene writes on 11 Mar 2019:

What is the evidence establishing James and Sarah (Wood) Carpenter as the parents of William H. Carpenter? If your only source for it is the Amos B. Carpenter (ABC) volume, then there's good reason to treat it with great caution. The same goes for several of the preceding intergenerational links in this line, as presented by ABC.

THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter Celebrate Their Fiftieth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Carpenter last evening, at the residence of Dr. Frank Carpenter. 120 Reid avenue, celebrated their fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Dr. Carpenter is one of the children of the venerable couple, the family consisting of three sons and two daughters, all living. There are also fifteen grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mr. Carpenter was born in New York city in 1825. He is a descendant of an old Long Island family that settled in Hempstead in the last century.

In 1845 he was married to his present wife, then a Miss Elizabeth Wallace, daughter of John' Wallace, a well known musician, and brother of George Wallace, a musician and bandmaster. They were married in a Methodist Episcopal church at Christie and Brooms streets, New York city.

Since that time Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter have divided their time between New York and Brooklyn. Mr. Carpenter is with the Carpenter Steel works at Reading, Pa. His step-mother, Mrs. Mary Carpenter, was present at last evening's ceremonies.

The parlors of the Reid avenue residence last night were handsomely decorated with potted plants, palms and Easter lilies.

About 9 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter took their places at the head of the front parlor and received the congratulations of their friends and relations. During the evening a fine musical programme was given.

Mr. Edward O'Mahoney, the well known baritone singer, delighted the guests.

Mrs. Annie Carpenter, wife of the doctor, who has a soprano voice of considerable merit, sang "A Kiss," "The Meeting" and "I Flori d'Aprille," and before the close of the evening's festivities Mr. O'Mahoney and Mrs. Carpenter rendered "The Gypsy Countess" in such fine style that a repetition was demanded.

At 12 o'clock supper was served by a well known uptown caterer. In the center of the table was a large wedding cake. The health of the venerable couple was drunk, after a toast by Mr. Gaskell, in which he congratulated them on their long and happy union and prophesied many inure years of happiness. Reminiscences were also given by Joseph Wallace, a brother of Mrs. Carpenter. Many presents were received, among them being a solid gold tea strainer from Mr. and Mrs. J. Silleck, one dozen solid gold tea spoons from Dr. J. C. Barron, gold watch and silver napkin rings from Dr. and Mrs. Carpenter, one dozen silver coffee spoons from Mr. Peter Archdeacon, solid gold sugar spoon from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawksworth, A painting, "Goldenrod" from James Dunn of Paterson, a gilded chair from Mrs. Oberry, A silver cake basket and a silver butter dish and knife.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. C. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wallace, Mr. and Mrs. Doxey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Greasett, H. Burton, Archie Greasett, John Greasett, Mr. and Mrs. F. Adams, F. Ackerman, Mrs. Ennis, Miss Ennis, Mrs. Anna O'Neill, Miss Aggie O'Neill, Miss Anna O'Neill of New York, Mrs. Stanley, Dr. and Mrs. F. Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shock of Mr. Flower's Death Fatal.

William H. Carpenter, a former resident of this city, died suddenly on Saturday at the residence of his son, Dr. S.(typo should be F.) E. Carpenter of 124 Reid Avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Carpenter's death is certified as due to heart disease, but his son said he believed it was due to the immediate shock caused by the news of ex-Gov. Flower's death. Ex-Gov. Flower was well known to Mr. Carpenter.

Mr. Carpenter was born in this city in 1825. He was originally a gold pencil-case maker, but was associated with his son J. H. Carpenter, a steel manufacturer of Reading, Penn. until the latter's death two years ago.

Since then Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter have lived with their daughter, Mrs. Ackerman of Paterson, N. J. It was while on a visit to his son in Brooklyn that he died.

A widow, two sons, and two daughters survive him. The funeral services will be held this evening at Dr. Carpenter's residence. The burial will be tomorrow afternoon in Greenwood.

Incorporated: 1889 as Carpenter Steel Company, now known as Carpenter Technology

The man whose name the present company bears, James Henry Carpenter, served in the Navy during the Civil War, then embarked on a career as a construction engineer, developing an interest in metallurgy and the manufacture of tool steel. A New Yorker, Carpenter was encouraged to found a steel-making enterprise in Reading, Pennsylvania, by a visionary city councilman who, realizing that the region's bustling iron industry would naturally support such a venture, foresaw a boon to the city's economy. Incorporated in New Jersey on June 7, 1889, Carpenter Steel Company leased a rail-making plant in Reading and soon received its first order for 3,000 tons of steel. Within five months, the fledgling company had outgrown the rail-making plant and acquired a facility known as Union Foundry, which over 100 years later still functioned as company headquarters and a specialty steel mill.

Carpenter's branching into specialty steel operations began with a May 1890 contract with the U.S. Secretary of the Navy. Having found Carpenter's tool steels to be of superior quality, the Navy was betting, correctly as it turned out, that the company could develop armor-piercing projectiles. The fulfillment of the Navy contract was enabled by a patent granted to James Carpenter for an "air-hardening steel" manufacturing process. In November 1896, the Navy informed Congress that Carpenter's projectiles had tested successfully, calling them "the first made that would pierce improved armor plate." In the Spanish-American War of 1898, the routing of the Spanish fleet at Manila Bay was credited in part to Carpenter projectiles.

Unfortunately, the preeminence Carpenter achieved through its wartime armaments proved to be a curse when the Spanish-American War, and the contracts it fostered, ended. Complicating the decline in business was the death, in March 1898, of founder James Carpenter. By 1903, the company had fallen into receivership. However, the court-appointed receiver, Robert E. Jennings, was a former vice-president of a rival steel company and would soon oversee a dramatic resurgence at Carpenter. Elected president of a reorganized Carpenter Steel Company the following year, Jennings's expertise was in marketing; for the remainder of the decade he presided over innovations resulting in a variety of steel grades broad enough for almost every extant tooling application, including heavy-duty cutting tools, high-speed cutting tools, and hot heading. ...

<http://www.berkshistory.org/articles/guilded-age.html>

A sampling of successful industrialists of the Gilded Age in Reading would include James H. Carpenter, a U.S. Naval Academy graduate, who in 1889 founded Carpenter Steel when he took over the site of a defunct iron foundry to produce a limited specialty line of steel (today known as CarTech, it specializes in high tech steel applications as well as stainless steel products).

As well, James Carpenter, founder of Carpenter Steel, believed strongly in the safety and welfare of his employees. Photographs of the era depict employees receiving medical care at company sponsored health clinics, clean dormitory rooms provided to workers, employees engaged in spirited games of baseball on a Carpenter Steel-maintained field at lunch time, and happy workers participating in a local parade. Far from being entirely company propaganda, Carpenter Steel's approach to employee relations is supported by the fact that five drives to unionize workers over the years all resulted in a rejection of union affiliation in favor of remaining a non-union shop. The company's policy was to "stay one step ahead of the union benefits and offer Carpenter employees all the advantages of union membership without joining. "

Dear Robin, Carpenter Technology has its main phone number at (610) 208-2000. They have some 3,000 people working there and they have an extensive library on technology. The library also holds company history records. They have a web page at: <<http://www.cartech.com/>> Information contact is listed as: webmastr@cartech.com <<mailto:webmastr@cartech.com>> I am curious also! Let me know if you find out anything! John R. Carpenter La Mesa, CA Below is an overview of the company BUILDING ON THE PAST The company was founded on June 7, 1889, as the Carpenter Steel Company in Reading, Pa. James H. Carpenter, a construction engineer whose interest in steel production led him to the study of metallurgy, wanted to test the commercial value of improvements he conceived for the manufacture of steel. He and a small group of investors leased the old Philadelphia and Reading rail mill in Reading and, 11 weeks later, began melting the companys first order for 3,000 tons of tool steel. One of his patented inventions - an air-hardening steel - was also used for knives, drills, and projectiles capable of piercing the armor on warships. In fact, Carpenters projectiles proved to be a decisive factor in the Spanish-American War, and established the company as a steel pioneer in both the United States and Europe. A Company Set Apart Over the next seven decades, the company found its niche in the area of specialty metals, and by the early 1980s was turning out more than 400 specialty grades of stainless, tool and alloy steels. As the Eighties arrived, so did changes in the U.S. economy. A severe recession lingered for years, and the U.S. steel industry was especially slow to rebound, due in part to increasing competition from foreign imports. Many steel companies faced financial losses for much of that decade. Some closed their doors, sold or downsized their steel operations and/or diversified into other areas. Carpenter, however, remained profitable and kept its sights on the future. The company remained committed then to an 8-year, $400 million capital expansion program. It also set new long-term goals, acquiring companies that were extensions of its core business - specialty metals - and selling those that no longer fit the company's goals. Carpenter also upgraded its product mix, increasing sales to such high-end markets as the aerospace and chemical industries. By the early Nineties, the company was well positioned to take advantage of a revitalized economy in a global marketplace. As the global marketplace grew, so did competition. Customers demanded not only more sophisticated alloys and higher quality levels, but wanted them in record time. To meet these demands, Carpenter adopted a Continuous Improvement philosophy to improve processes and services; continued to modernize its manufacturing and plant operations; built facilities to house new operations; and acquired new companies that allowed the company to grow faster than a U.S. steel company would otherwise. Mr. Carpenter, thank you writing about Carpenter Technology's namesake, James Carpenter. We're pleased to hear from people with a connection to Carpenter.

Attached is the official company bio about James Carpenter. I located an old, faded microfiche print of James's obituary published in the Reading Eagle newspaper on Monday, March 7, 1898.

He died of complications from pneumonia at his residence at 606 N. Fifth St., Reading, Pa. (in downtown Reading). The home was referred to as Swananoa or possibly Swanona depending on the source. His widow was the former Georgienne Smith of Indianapolis, IN. The obit states that his parents, 2 brothers and 2 sisters survived him and resided in Brooklyn, NY. The article does not provide the names of those family members.

I hope this was of some use to you.
